

THE MICROSOFT SECURITY UPDATE

The Microsoft Security Update is an e-mail alert service designed for home users and small businesses that provides information about Microsoft security updates and virus alerts. Microsoft also uses this service to make subscribers aware that they might need to take action to guard against a circulating security threat.

This month's security updates address newly discovered issues in Microsoft(R) Windows (R), including Microsoft Outlook Express, a component of Windows. To learn about these updates and which software is affected, go to Microsoft.com: <http://go.microsoft.com/?LinkID=466770>.

MICROSOFT REMOVES NAZI SYMBOLS FROM OFFICE

Microsoft has issued a tool to remove two swastikas from its Office 2003 product. The company said the Nazi symbols were included accidentally. The tool also removes a Star of David, which Microsoft said was in close proximity to the swastikas. The tool was included with a recent update for Office 2003. It is also available as a standalone download, at:
