Blogs (Web Logs)

Our November 21st Program will feature a presentation about Blogs. Blogs have become a new and popular way to communicate on the Internet. You can post personal or family information, log your experiences, display graphics, or present views on a particular subject. Blogs can be made available for everyone, or they can be restricted for a particular audience. Today, they are a very popular item – and in some cases have sparked a lot of controversy.

While some of you may have viewed or read Blogs, they are a new feature to most of us. This presentation will give you a quick look at some Blogs, what they are, how they work, how to use them, how they might be good or bad, and why they might be important to you.

Join us and learn about this new and interesting application on the Internet, and learn how you might establish and publish your own Blog.

MORE CONGRATULATORY NOTES ON ACHIEVING NON-PROFIT CORPORATION STATUS

Please express my heartfelt THANK YOU to all of the people named in your email, and the Board members. I cannot even conceive how many of your hours went into all the tedious tasks that were involved in achieving non-profit status. The LWPCUG is a shining example of what can be achieved by dedicated volunteers working together. I have owned a home computer less than four years; and several times when I was in despair about it, a visit to the workshop quickly gave me the help I needed.

I can remember when my good friend and bridge buddy, the late Ann Hairfield, told me to go visit the computer workshop at Clubhouse 1, to get encouragement to learn how to use a home computer. It was then just 2 tiny rooms and a few computers. What a difference from the facilities that now exist! Obviously, the achievement of non-profit is another step in a long history of goals set and reached.

Congratulations!
