You know you're living in 2005 when:

1. You accidentally enter your password on your Microwave.
2. You haven't played Solitaire with real cards in years.
3. You e-mail the person who works at the desk next to you.
4. You have a list of 15 phone numbers to reach your family of three.
5. You get up in the morning and go on-line before getting your coffee.
6. Leaving home without your cell phone, which you didn't have for the first 50 or 60 years of your life, is cause for panic and you go back to get it.
7. You're reading this and nodding and laughing.

The following free password manager programs have been recommended by friends. Try to find them on the sites above first. Then try the following addresses.

1. Password Safe (www.schneier.com/passafe.html)
2. Secure Data manager (<http://sdm.sourceforge.net>)
3. HyperSafe (www.passwordsafe.com)
4. Google search for 'free password manager'

A word of warning! Internet Explorer will also save your passwords for you, but their system has been cracked before and it is only a simple system. I recommend following the above guidelines.

Be Safe and improve your chances for a safe computing experience. Write me at tholcomb2@fea.net if you have any comments, suggestions or questions about this article. I will make every attempt to get back to you with an answer or a place to search for the answer.
