SEARCH COMBINES THE BEST OF TWO SITES

People have been using Google for searches for years. Some insist that Yahoo! is better. Now, you can combine the two. Gahoo! Yoogole is a search site that returns links from both Yahoo! and Google. Just enter your search term and you're returned a split screen. Yahoo! is on one side; Google, the other. You can also check out news and images.

There is one downside: Since each gets half a page, things are a little crowded. But you may find it worthwhile.

TIRED OF THE PRICE OF GAS?

It seems like the price of gas gets higher every day. Fortunately, the Department of Energy has put together today's site to help you out.

First, click on your state. You're given links to sites that help you find the lowest-priced gas. The comparisons are amazing – you'll be surprised at how much you can save!

There are more ways to save on gas. Find simple tips for getting more miles per gallon. You've probably heard how proper car maintenance can save gas. Well, now you can see the numbers to back it up.

If you're curious, you'll also enjoy the statistics. See how local prices compare with the rest of the nation. Or see how much you're paying in taxes. It's eye-opening.

TODAY'S COOL SITE—IS THAT REALLY A TREE?

There are thousands of cell phone towers scattered across the country. But, surprise, not all of them look like towers.

Some are camouflaged to look like trees. Well, trees with odd pieces of metal protruding from the side. And most trees don't have warning signs on them.

Yes, if you look closely, you can tell that they're not your average tree. But from a distance, they do a good job of hiding the towers.

Fraud Frond features pictures of these faux trees. And you'll never look at trees the same way again! Now I'm always on the lookout for fake palm trees. I haven't seen any yet, but maybe you'll have more luck. If you do, you can send Fraud Frond your pictures.
